We would like to welcome all stakeholders to a final conference of the Particip.AGE project to foster debate on this increasingly relevant and important topic of dignified and healthy ageing especially, for People with Intellectual Disabilities.

Thanks to medical and technological advances, people with intellectual disabilities are enjoying longer lives. Yet they often encounter health and social challenges decades earlier than the general population. To address this “double vulnerability,” we invite you to join us to hear about the innovative online training courses for ageing people with intellectual disabilities and the service providers’ staff that support them as well as the policy recommendations, to enhance the community inclusion this often overlooked population.

In addition to the launch of our final project results, together we will explore actionable strategies to promote dignity and well-being for ageing adults with intellectual disabilities.
